Cabman Says Slayers of Paterson Girl Cast Lots for Sonvenirs.

PUBLIC SHOCKED AT DETAILS.

Community Determined to Punish the Perpetrators of the Crime -Another Mill Girl Accuses One of the Prisoners.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Oct. 25,-Awful depths of degradation have been exposed to public gaze through the investigation of the murder of Jennie Bosschieter, the Paterson, N. J., mill girl, by four young men of that place last Thursday night. The case is unparalleled for brutality and heartless cruelty, and it is creditable to the people of Paterson that they demand a speedy trial and conviction of the accused

There is to be a mass meeting in Paterson to give voice to public indignation over these disclosures and to purge the city of any suspicion of sympathy with the prisoners, who, with one exception—the man beautiful and the property of the city of the property of the city of the cit named Death-are prominent socially and

Story of the Cabman.

Scowthorpe, the cabman, has made a full confession to the police of the manner in which Jennie Bosschieter met her death. His story is revolting in the extreme. It follows the account already printed of the affair, but Scowthorpe added one or two new points. One of these was that he had been originally hired by George Kerr to pick up the party at Baal's saloon.

When Scowthorpe went there to keep the engagement, a woman with a bare head peered from the door, and finding the street clear, spoke to the four men, who carried girl was already under the influence of the drug, a mixture of chloral. McAllister blew out the cab's lamps before starting. Several miles out in the country the girl was taken from the vehicle.

She groaned pitifully, Scowthorpe said. She was evidently dring at that time, but this did not deter the brutes who held her at their mercy. Shortly afterward it was discovered that the girl was dead.

Doctor Townsend, to whom the men applied frantically for assistance, advised the men to take the body to the home of the girl's parents, and Scowthorpe was anxious to do so. But he says Death and Campbell drew revolvers and compelled him to recross the river and drive into Bergen County, where the body was found on the following day.

Another Victim Found. Another Victim Found.

The death of Miss Bosschieter has called forth an affidavit from Elizabeth Schaub, another Paterson mill girl, in which she charges that she was drugged by McAllister in practically the same way and barely escaped with her life. The Schaub girl was born in Basle, Switzerland, twenty years ago and is a lace worker. She was introduced to McAllister and Kerr by a girl friend, and together the party went for a drive.

friend, and together the party went for a drive.

They had some lemonade en route, and soon after that Miss Schaub began to feel dizzy. She wept as she related the result of the story to-day.

Like the Bosschleter girl, she lost consciousness entirely. She says McAllister and Kerr worked over her for six hours before they brought her to. At the time Miss Schaub told McAllister that his day would come, and she says now that she will go on the stand and testify against him.

The Paterson police have not yet been able to locate the drugsist from whom McAllister purchased the drug.

WILL VOTE FOR BRYAN.

Col. Dohoney Says He Is the Only Man Who Can Save Republic. REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 25.—Colonel E. L. Dohoney of Faris, Tex., one of the leaders of the Populist party in Texas of the Middle-of-the-Road class, has declared for Bryan. He has been in opposition to the Democratic party for twenty-five years. He writes.

He writes:

"I shall vote for Bryan, not because he is the Democratic nominee, but because he is the Democratic nominee, but because he is the only American who has any chance to beat this British boodling administration. It seems to me that if the people re-elect McKiniey, after all the corruption and oppression and high-handed international robbery, which Mark Hanna and the boodlers (from the London money power down to the Cuban post office thieves) have required him to perpetuate, American liberty is gone. So I shall vote for Bryan to try to save the Republic."

EXTENDS FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN. Vanderbilt Interests in Railroads

Across the Continent.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, Oct. 25.—Rumors that William K. Vanderbilt has recently acquired large holdings of Southern Pacific securities were circulated in Wall street to-day, and were seemingly well authenticated. That Mr. Vanderbilt aims to control the property was denied by Southern Pacific interests, but among so-called Vanderbilt interests it was denied that he and his friends are now interested in the road to a greater or deser extent.

was denied that he and his friends are now interested in the road to a greater of Asser extent.

The rumor, as it spread, was enlarged, according to the Wall street habit, and before the close of the market it was whispered that Mr. Vanderbilt had purchased the Huntington holdings of Southern Pacific and was immediately to take control of the property. Through this purchase, it was added, Mr. Vanderbilt would also control the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

Mr. Vanderbilt's plans for a greate transatiante line are generally believed in, and Wall street believes in E. H. Harriman's position as the real executive of the Union Pacific system, as indicating Vanderbilt control there. Now that Vanderbilt interests are in Southern Pacific, it may truly be said that their direct influence extends from ocean to ocean without a break.

That Southern Pacific affairs are soon to be readjusted, as was made necessary by the death of Collis P. Huntington, is indicated by the fact that the new president for the company has been practically decided upon. The man who will be elected to that position, unless some new complication arises, is H. E. Huntington, nephew of the late president, whose candidacy has been so vigorousty opposed. Huntington, however, will be merely a figurehead. The real executive will be Charles H. Tweed, who was recently elected chairman of the Board of Directors.

Great Democratic Day at Tipton.

Confidential Agent for Memphis

Cotton Buyers Arrested.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—C. D. Snapp, confidential agent for Caldwell & Smith, cotton brokers of Memphis, Tenn., was arrested here to-day charged with embezzlement of $22.00. Later in the day he was turned over to a deputy from Memphis, who, with Bolton Smith, a member of the firm, had come to Chicago to effect the arrest, and started for Memphis.

Snapp was given a two months' leave of absence about September 15 on account of failing health, and since that time has been in Chicago, accompanied by his wife. A few days after his departure from Memphis it was discovered that the firm's books were wrong, and an examination by an expert accountant was had.

It was found that the embezzlements range over a period of five years. It is said Snapp lost large sums of money on various outside enterprises, and is also said to have lost heavily on the races.

Snapp confessed that speculations on the Cotton Exchange and in other stocks had caused his downfall. The arrest was made at the Hyde Park Hotel, Lake avenue and Fifty-first street, one of the most fashlonable residence portions of the city, where Snapp had been living since his arrival in Chicago.

A couple of hundred men employed by the Montreal Cotton Company on the foundations of a new mill went out on strike yesterday, demanding an increase of 25 cents a day in their pay. The company refused to deal with the union. Yesterday the strikers prevented the company from shipping goods and to-day held up the company's

The local police were powerless. The ompany had to have coal or shut down. Consequently, a message was sent to Montreal asking for military assistance. It arrived at Valleyfield at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon and consisted of two companies of the Royal Scots. The embargo on the coal pile was promptly removed.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Lyman A. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury, delivered an address this evening to the "Young Republican Club" of Brooklyn. He devoted his entire speech to the financial question, saying in part:

"When the silver builion now owned by the Government shall be fully coined there will be outstanding in the form of silver dollars or silver certificates the sum of nearly six hundred millions. With the free coinage of silver on private account it will be impossible for the Treasury to maintain the parity now existing between all forms of our money. The silver dollars we now have will inevitably sink to a level with the new dollars—that is to say, they will sink to their buillon value, or to 50 cents on the dollar. This means that the present or future holders of our silver money are to be defrauded of not less than three hundred millions in value. And who are these holders? Not the banks, not the capitalists. The silver money is scattered far and wide—in the hands of hundreds of thousands of our people, most of whom live west of the Alleghanies.

His metaphor is a kind of missit garment; but, accepting it, let us answer that if man is above the dollar, he ought to be above—infinitely above—this half-dollar fraud which the Democratic party espouses.

"We are menaced by the opposition with an expressed determination to enter upon that foolish and destructive experiment. Every one of the three parties nominating Mr. Bryan has declared for that programme. The election of 1856 proved that a majority of our people were still sane and right-minded. They then rejected these proposals by an overwhelming vote. Warned by that experience, the leader of the joint alliance is reserved in his declamations on the money question. President and Other Government Officials Saw Sherman's Body Laid to Rest.

FUNERAL AT MANSFIELD, O.

City and State Made Appropriate Mourning Demonstrations --Old Comrades-in-Arms of Sherman's in Cortege.

Mansfield, O., Oct. 25.-In a picturesque little cemetery, where generations of Mansfield's builders sleep, lie the remains of John Sherman, the Ohio Senator and the nation's statesman. There, to-day, all that is mortal of the former Secretary of State was laid to rest with ceremonies that were impressive yet eloquently simple,

All Ohio contributed laurels to the illus trious dead, and representing the nation were President McKinley, Elihu Root, Secretary of War, and other Washington of

The city was draped in mourning. Every business house closed at 2 o'clock, and all the schools were dismissed that the pupils might attend the services at the Grace Episcopal Church, where, half a century ago, John Sherman first worshiped and for years was a vestryman.

Men of Sherman's Brigade Marched. From the funeral train, which arrived at 10:16 a. m., the remains were escerted to the church, through streets which were thronged with citizens and thousands who had gathered here from other places. The coute was marked in the early morning with many political banners eulogistic of national and State candidates of both parties, but as a mark of respect to the dead all these were removed before the procession

In the line of march were two companies of the Eighth Ohio Volunteers, who fought in the Spanish War, while, flanking the hearse, was a squad of forty-two survivors of the famous Sherman brigade, all gray and bent with age, but stepping with tread as firm as men of half their years.

All these were present when Mayor Brown and a committee of citizens greeted President McKinley at the depot.

Senator Hanna and Major Henry C. Hedges arrived an hour later from Chicago.

No Sermon Was Preached.

President McKinley and his immediate party did not tarry at the church where the remains were left in state, but went at once to the residence of Congressman Kerr, where luncheon was served and where they remained until 2:39 p. m., the time

Wilborg, John Sherman Hoyt, William McCord, Alfred W. Hoyt and Charles A. Sherman. These escorted the remains into the church, which was then thrown open to the public, and for hours thousands of men, women and children filed past the casket.

Seated in front pews were President McKinley, General Miles, Senator Hanna, Judge Day, Senator Foraker and other distinguished men. The officiating priest was the Reverend A. B. Putnam, rector of the church, who used the ritual exclusively, preaching no funeral sermon.

Following the rendition of the funeral march by the organist, Doctor Putnam read selections from the Fsalms and the surpliced choir sang the processional, "Lend, Kindly Light," a nymn, "O Paradise," and the recessional, "Abide With Me."

The casket was finished in black cloth and bore a plate on which was inscribed:

Buried Beside His Wife. Buried Beside His Wife.

From the church the cortege moved in Main street to the cemetery, a mile distant. At Central Park the procession passed under an immense arch of mourning on which was emblazoned in glit letters, "The Nation's Loss."

Heading the column was the Mansfeld Band, with white plumed helmets, and just behind them the Eighth Ohio Volunteers. In a carriage, near that occupied by President McKinley, were three men who were delegates to the first convention that ever nominated John Sherman for Congress, is 1854. They are M. L. was crowded to-night when James A. Reed, Mayor of Kansas City, delivered an address. He captured the audience at the outset by "standing up for Missouri." After defending the fair name of Missouri from the assaults of Republicans, the speaker turned to national issues. The address is regarded as one of the ablest and most eloquent ever delivered in Joplin.

Annual Session of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society Adjourns.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Lebanon, Ill., Oct. 25.—The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church for the Lebanon District, comprising a haif dozen counties in Southern Illinois, has just completed its annual meeting at Trenton, seven miles east of here.

The meeting lasted two days, and was the most largely attended of any in the history of the society. Among the interesting features were an address by Miss France Baker of Morence, Mich., general secretary of the ladles' missionary movement, and a leiter read from Dector Mary Ketring of Ching-King, China, telling of the flight and safe arrival in Japan of herself and other American missionaries in China during the recent Boxer outbreak.

CHARITY CONFERENCE. Representatives of Institutions to Meet in January.

Meet in January.

A conference of the representatives of the various charitable institutions of the State will be held in St. Louis January 19 and 11. The date was set at a meeting of the Executive Committee, held yesterday at the Southern Hotel.

At this meeting each charity organization in the State will send at least one delegate and the conference is expected to attract at least 150 delegates. General questions, relating to the charity institutions and reform schools of the State will be discussed. The members of the Executive Committee present yesterday were Miss M. E. Perry, W. C. Nolte of St. Louis; E. A. Rodgers of Boonville; J. M. Hansom of Kansas City; Mrs. DeBolt, superintendent of the Girls' Industrial Home, at Chillicothe; Professor Elwood of the State University at Columbia, and L. D. Drake, superintendent of the Reform School at Boonville.

L. D. Prake of Boonville, who is the president of the ablest superintendent of the Reform School at Boonville, who is the president of the superintendents of schools for the reformation of the young in the country. Although it is not generally known, Professor Drake refused an ofter made to him last June by the managers of the Elmira, N. Y., Reformatory to take charge of that institution. Professor Drake has been connected with the Boonville Reform School since its organization, and he has watched it grow until it is now one of the model institutions of its kind in the country. His refusal to leave Missouri is based on the allegiance to his State and this institution, of which he has had control for such a long period.
